HOW DID THE FUND PERFORM AND WHAT AFFECTED ITS PERFORMANCE?

For the six-month period ended March 31, 2026, the Fund (i) underperformed its primary benchmark, the Alerian Midstream Energy Select Index and (ii) outperformed its broad-based benchmark, the S&P 500 Index.

WHAT FACTORS INFLUENCED PERFORMANCE

Overweight positions to select outperforming midstream operators focused on natural gas were the largest positive group contributor during the period. Additionally, a non-index, outperforming position in a midstream company focused on floating liquefied natural gas (FLNG) infrastructure contributed positively as well. Conversely, a non-index position in an energy infrastructure operator operating in Texas, Louisiana and Mexico lagged during the period. The timing of our non-index position in a producer and exporter of liquefied natural gas (LNG) detracted from relative returns as well. Lastly, a non-index position in a wholesale distribution business moderately detracted from relative performance.

POSITIONING

Against a backdrop of geopolitical disruption abroad and accelerating, structurally supported demand at home, we believe midstream equities offer a unique value proposition. In the current environment, we see the asset class supported by a rare combination of durable volumes, contracted cash flows, healthy balance sheets and improving investor sentiment. As markets reprice replacement risk and the importance of reliable energy systems, we feel that well-positioned midstream companies are increasingly differentiated as attractive, cash-generative beneficiaries of the evolving energy landscape.

Effective September 30, 2025, the Fund changed its principal investment strategies to invest in a manner that will allow it to be treated as a regulated investment company (rather than a “C” corporation) under the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended. The Fund selected the Alerian Midstream Energy Select Index to replace the Alerian Midstream Energy Index as one of its benchmark indices because it believes that the Alerian Midstream Energy Select Index is more appropriate for comparing the Fund’s performance in light of the changes to the Fund’s principal investment strategies.

* The Fund’s past performance is not a good predictor of how the Fund will perform in the future. The graph and table do not reflect the deduction of taxes that a shareholder would pay on Fund distributions or redemption of Fund shares.
